Frequently Asked Questions FAQ's for
Vacating, Abandoning or Dedicating Public Right-of-Way or Public Easements

1. I am not the underlying fee owner, can I still apply for a right-of-way vacation?

Answer: No. Applications without evidence that the applicant owns the underlying fee will not be accepted.

2. What is an underlying fee owner?

Answer: The land beneath the public right-of-way may not be owned by the City and may not be owned by adjacent property owners. It may be owned the original subdivider, their heirs, or someone else. The person or entity which owns the land under the public right of way is referred to as the “underlying fee owner.” In all cases, the applicant must perform thorough research, sometimes with the help of a licensed Surveyor, Real Estate Attorney, and/or Title Company to determine who owns the underlying fee.

3. But what if I obtain the underlying fee title and my application ends up being denied? Can I have assurance that my request will go through?

Answer: There is no guarantee that a request for right of way vacation will be approved, and the applicant assumes all risk. There are many opportunities during the process for the request to be denied, but the City cannot begin the process unless the applicant is already the underlying fee owner.

4. What if the City is the underlying fee owner?

Answer: Contact the City of Oakland Real Estate Services Division prior to filing a vacation or abandonment application. You will need to have the property appraised at current market value and the appraiser and appraisal must be approved by Real Estate before you may be able to purchase the title from the City.

5. What if my neighbors don't want the vacation or abandonment to happen?

Answer: All adjacent and adjoining property owners must approve of the request. Remember that additional members of the public may support or oppose the request at any of the required public meetings.

6. What are “closure” improvements?

Answer: Closure improvements are items such as sidewalk, curbs, gutters, and storm drains required to “close” the gap between existing street corners where a vacated right of way intersects with an improved street.

7. Do I have to construct the required improvements before the vacation or abandonment is approved?

Answer: It depends on the improvements and the specific location. In most cases, you must obtain the permits required to perform the work and post the required bonds/sureties prior to final vacation approval.

8. What is a “summary” vacation?

Answer: A summary vacation is for right-of-way that has been impassable for vehicular travel and no public money has been expended for maintenance for a period of 5 years. The process is the same, but because it requires slightly less review, there is a minor reduction in fee cost.

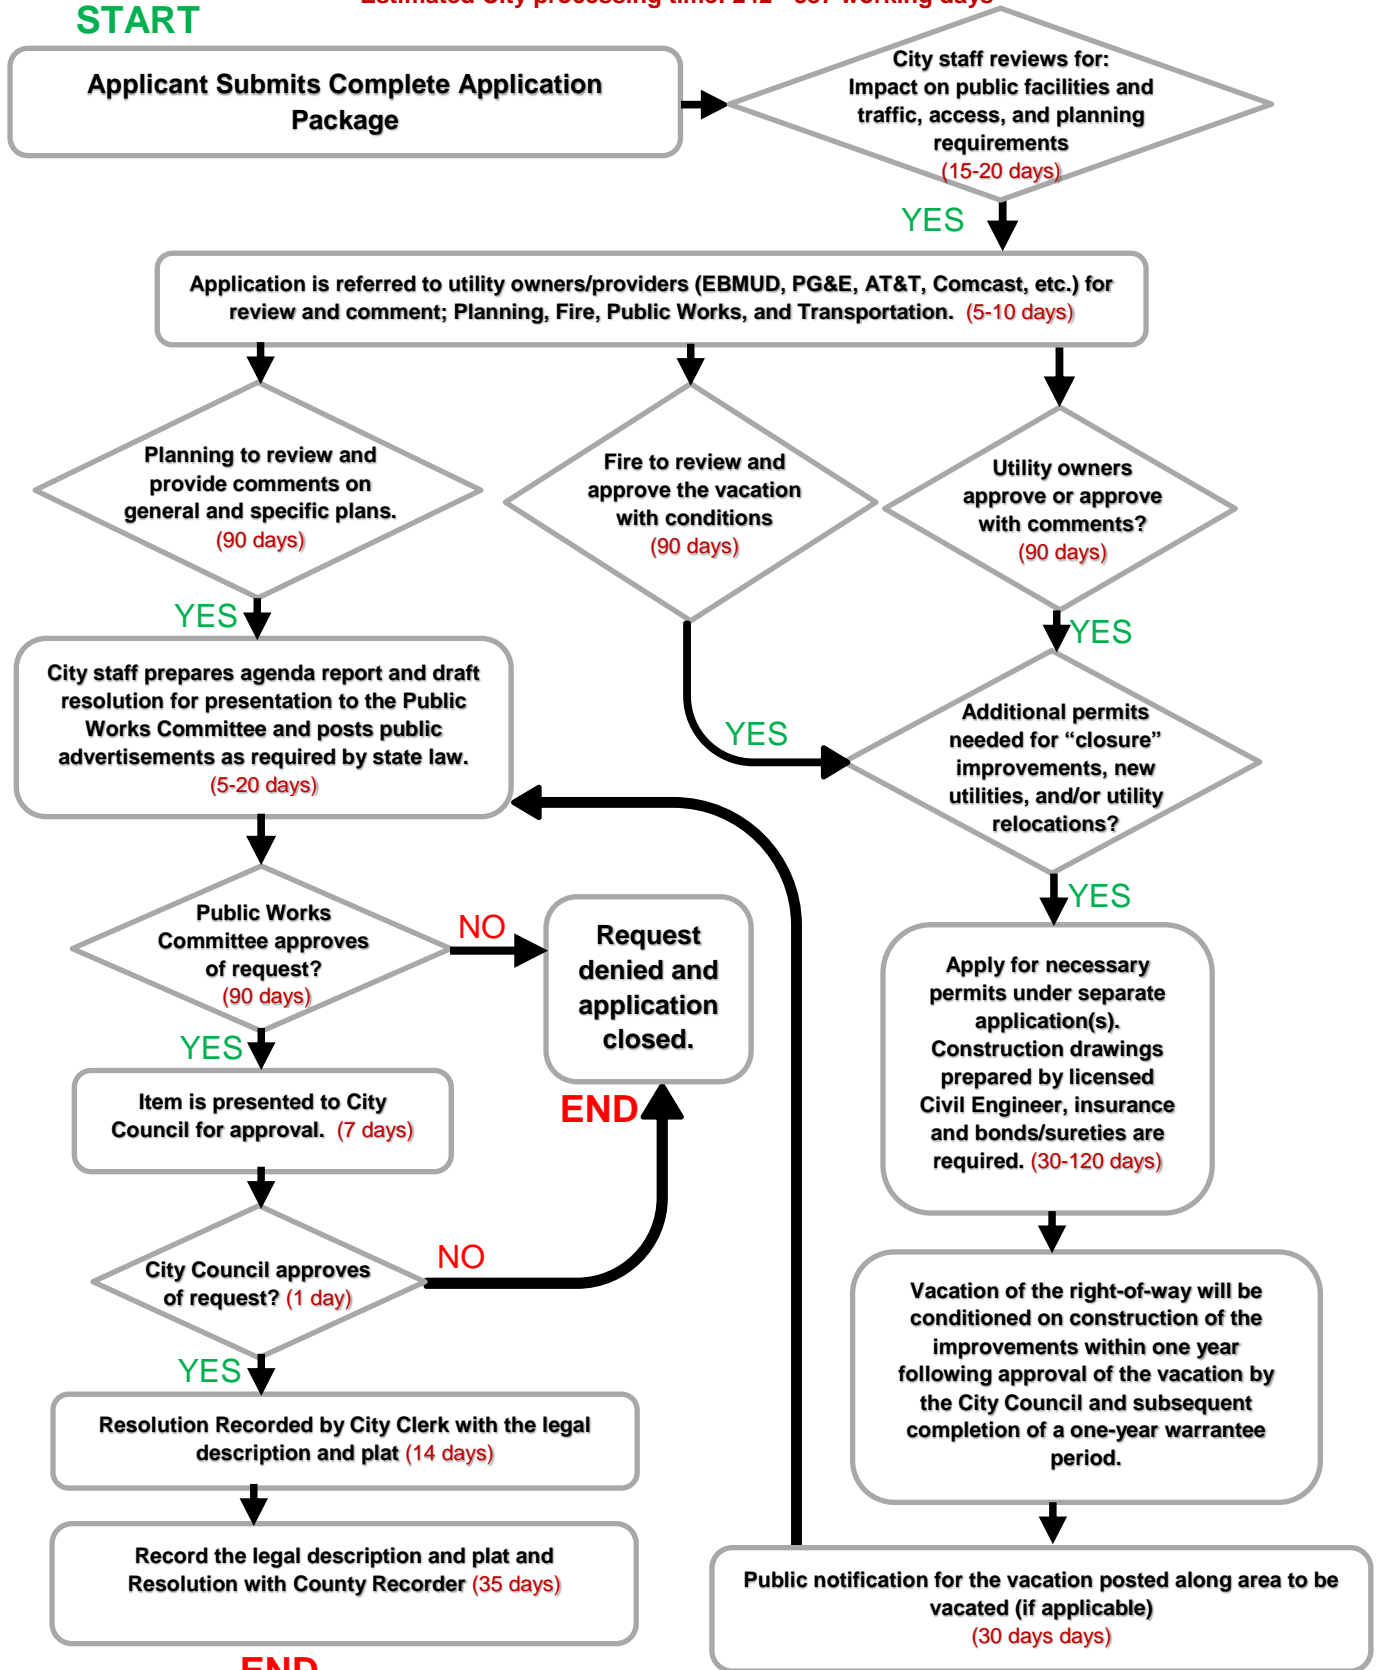

9. Can I dedicate an easement or right of way at the same time that I subdivide my property?

Answer: Yes, but not with this application. You can dedicate easements or rights of way on your Parcel or Tract Map, applied for using the application for parcel or tract map (the one with a pink label).
