These efforts are a first defense against crime. Block parties can be hosted anywhere including townhouse complexes, apartment buildings or even in a park near a condominium. Caution tape may be provided upon request at registration and streets will be blocked off at no-cost. Ogawa Plaza. The competition was fierce and city staff let the pedal hit the metal. The quick starts and deafening cheers had every racer going the distance. The sprint to cross the finish-line first was for a good cause indeed - to donate to a favorite charity and to support OPR youth development programs. At the drop of the checkered flag, it was announced that Michelle Byrd of Housing & Community Development placed first; City Administrator Sabrina Landreth placed second, and Scott Miller from Planning & Building slid in for the third and final spot. Spectators munched on hotdogs, links and burgers while rooting for their favorite team. The KTOP crew recorded every skid-out and each beaming smile. OPR would like to give a special thank you to all who participated and came out to show support. With the help of all involved, funds raised totaled $4,326.
