Expectations

- We will leave this first session feeling unfinished
- Try to share the floor evenly
- This is your plan, so this is your space to take- Jasmine is only here to prompt that conversation
- This is a blue-sky session – there are no bad ideas; give us everything
- There are poll prompts throughout this session. Please scan the QR code now and get set up so that you are ready

Who am I?

This process requires me to ask you all to tell me about your communities, your passions, and at times perhaps oppression that you all experience personally. Out of respect, some reciprocity.

I am a:

- Lifelong Oaklander
- Career-long champion for equity – Head of Racial Justice and Equity for OakDOT
- Multimedia artist
- Lover of vegan restaurants, coffee, and live music
- Cyclist and bike mechanic
- And I live with a sweet, orange, diabetic cat named Solomon

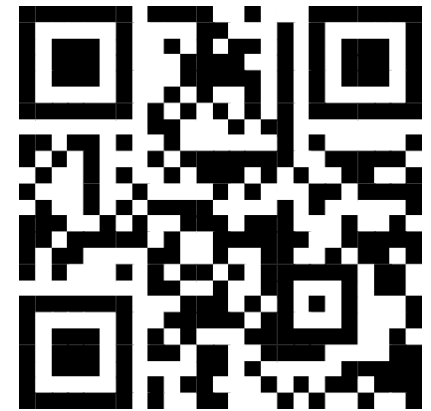

A Question for the Commissioners:

Why did you join the Mayors Commission on Persons with Disabilities?

What does Disability Justice look, sound, or feel like?

How can we describe the sensory experience of an accessible Oakland?

If you could magically change one thing in Oakland, what would you create?

- Each commissioner think separately about what they would do and answer individually
- For this exercise, challenge yourselves to use only positive language, ie “All disabled Oaklanders would have their basic needs met” as opposed to “Ending homelessness/hunger” or “Less economic discrimination against disability communities”
- This exercise challenges us to think about goals and strengths to focus on how best we can make change

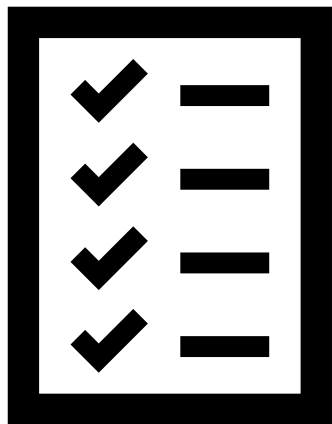

Brainstorming:

What other issues are important to you and your communities right now?

Poll Prompt

What do we have the assets to accomplish?

How the Commission makes change

- Reviewing and advising on City projects
- And...

Mapping
our resources

Which commissioners have capacity for these projects?

Of the ideas brought up, which are you interested in working on in the next year?

Answer the poll for your first and second priority to spend time on

A Parting Question

What makes this commission special?

Between your strength as a team, your connections to community, your individual experiences, or anything else... What do you all do better than anyone else?
